

Create Site Units From Environmental Fields

Your current project should be the project that contains the plots you are interested in.

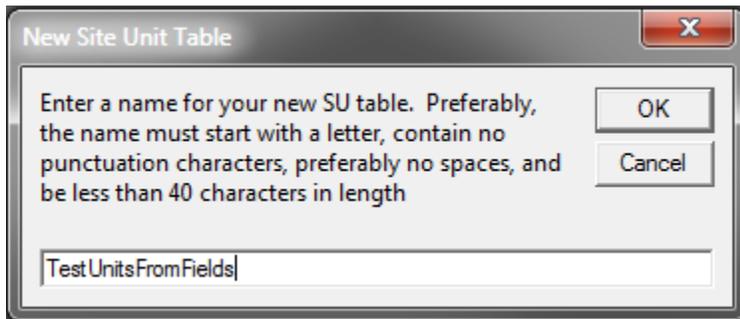

From the VPro tab of the ribbon, select “Create Site Units From Environmental Fields”.

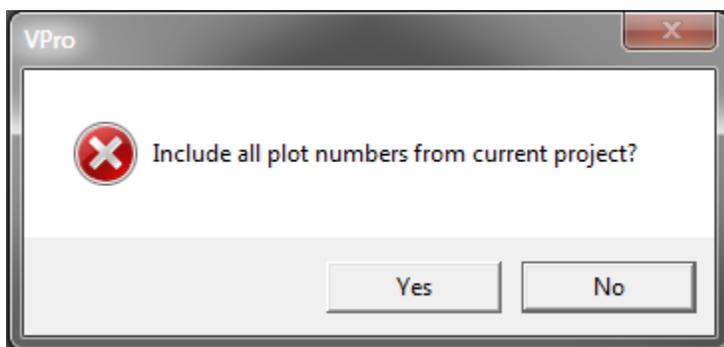

For this example we will create a new site unit list

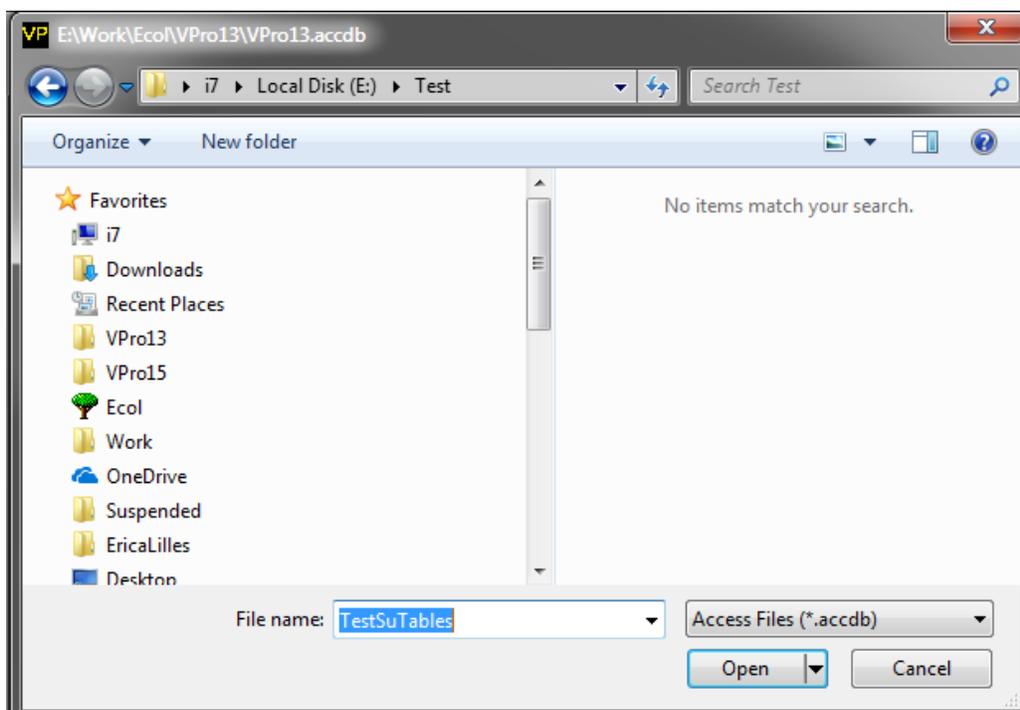

Give your list a meaningful name

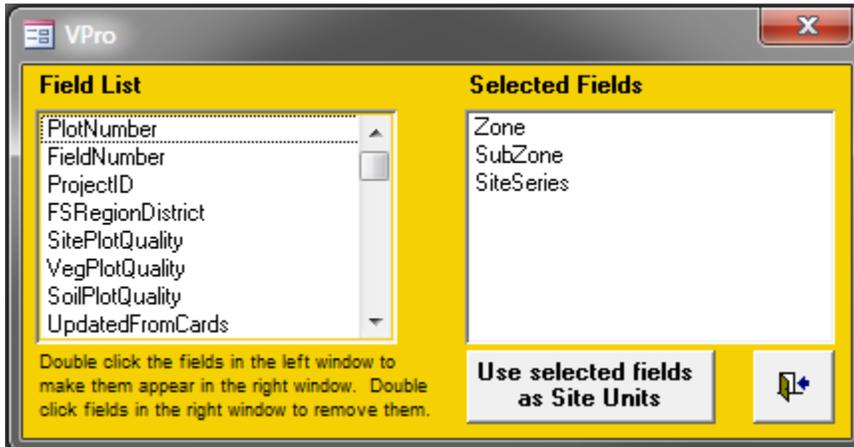

Click Yes to include all the plots

Either select an existing database or create a new one

Select the fields you wish to sort the plots into

You should now be able to view the structure of your site unit table by selecting the table in the list and clicking the "Site Unit Tree View" button

